

Responsive Survey Design: A Research Education Program

Details Regarding Participant Funding Opportunities

Thank you for your interest in our research education program on Responsive Survey Design (RSD). A limited amount of funding is available to support program participants on a first-come first-serve basis. Demonstration of need will also be taken into consideration.

To be considered further for this funding, please submit detailed responses to the following questions via email to rsdprogram@umich.edu at your earliest convenience:

1. Are you currently planning or implementing a research project that involves original survey data collection? If so, please provide a brief description of the project's objectives and the mode of data collection being used (face-to-face, telephone, web, mail, mixed-mode, etc.), along with any links to supporting documentation related to the survey.

2. Have you encountered any difficulties with implementing surveys in this or prior research projects (e.g., high costs, low response rates, etc.)? If so, please explain briefly.

3. What is your explicit interest in learning more about RSD?

4. Please state your financial need clearly. Please identify any sources of funding that you will receive to cover the short course fees, expenses and/or travel costs.

We will carefully review your responses upon receipt, and be in touch shortly thereafter to notify you about any support that we can provide.

Thank you!
